land, the unit price of the positive crop output and total gains for the discount of cash equivalents shall be calculated based on the following standards:

1. Agricultural land and animal husbandry land:

(1) The price of rice or sweet potato for paddy fields or dry fields if the latest land category recorded on the land register is paddy field or dry field. If there is a land grade, it shall be subject to the same land grade rated by the local government; if there is no land grade, it shall be calculated based on the average land grade of the land category.

(2) The rental calculation method in accordance with the dry field with no land grade in the preceding item if the latest land category recorded on the land register is not paddy field or dry field (i.e., calculate rentals according to the price of sweet potatoes based on the average land grade of dry fields). If the lessee applied for a rental calculation for paddy fields, rentals may be calculated based on the price of rice; however, it shall not be lower than the total rentals calculated based on the average land grade of paddy fields.

(3) Regarding the average land grade calculation for paddy fields or dry fields in the preceding items, if the lessee provides evidence to prove that the rental calculation standard is higher than adjoining or neighboring lands with equivalent nature of use, calculate based on the higher land grade of the adjoining lands (i.e., less total gains); if adjoining lands have no land grade, calculated based on the higher land grade with reference to the standards of lands with land grades in the neighboring areas.

2. Cultural land and aqua-cultural land:

(1) The rental calculation shall be based on the price of positive output in accordance with the agreement in the lease if the latest land category recorded in the land register is cultural land or pond. If there is a land grade, it shall be subject to the same land grade rated by the local government; if there is no land grade, it shall be calculated based on the average land grade of the land category.

(2) If the latest land category recorded in the land register is not cultural land or pond, or if there is no record of land category, the rental calculation shall be subject to the average land grade of cultural lands.

(3) If the local government has not announced standards for total gains or the discount of cash equivalents based on the positive output, process according to the standards of the adjoining county (city). If there are two adjoining counties (cities) and above, calculate based on the lower total gains or the standards for the discount of cash equivalents based on the positive output.

(4) If the local government and adjoining counties (cities) have not announced the standards for total gains or the discount of cash equivalents based on the positive output, refer to the standards for total gains or the discount of cash equivalents based on the positive output for cultural lands and ponds announced by adjoining counties (cities) of the adjoining counties (cities). Or, calculate based on the lower standards for total gains or the discount of cash equivalents based on positive output with reference to the Fisheries Statistical Yearbook announced by the competent authority for fishery and other information.

(5) For outlying islands with no adjoining county (city), if the local government has not announced standards for total gains, or the discount of cash equivalents based on positive output, refer to the standards for total gains or the discount of cash equivalents based on positive output for cultural lands and ponds announced by neighboring counties (cities) on Taiwan Island. Or, calculate based on the lower standards for total gains or the discount of cash equivalents based on positive output with reference to the Fisheries Statistical Yearbook announced by the competent authority for fishery and other information.

For woodlands (type B) leased before the amendments to the Lease Regulations on November 2, 2007 changed to national land (agriculture) leases, the price of positive output and total gains shall be calculated and collected according to the following standards:

1. If the latest land category recorded on the land register is forest, and the local government has standards for total gains or the discount of cash equivalents based on the positive output regarding the land grade of the land category, the calculation and collection shall be subject to the standards. If there is no land grade, calculate based on the average land grade of the land category. For the remaining, calculate the rent based on the price of sweet potatoes in accordance with the average land grade of dry fields.

2. Regarding the average land grade calculation in the preceding subparagraph, if the lessee provides evidence to prove that the rental calculation standard is higher than adjoining or neighboring lands with equivalent nature of use, calculate based on the higher land grade of the adjoining lands (i.e., less total gains).

If adjoining lands have no land grade, calculated based on the higher land grade with reference to the standards of lands with land grades in neighboring areas.

The average land grade in the preceding paragraphs refers to the highest land grade plus the lowest land grade rated by the local government, divided by two and rounded to a whole number.
