Article 5

When the branches of the National Property Administration issue land use right consent letters, in addition to observing the current restrictions on the sale of national land, they should also pay attention to the following matters:

(1) No violation of the local land use zoning control.

(2) In the case of leased land, the public enterprise shall coordinate with the lessee to obtain a written agreement to terminate the lease before proceeding. If there are rent arrears and the public enterprise is required to pay compensation, the public enterprise shall undertake to deduct the compensation from the compensation paid to the lessee.

(3) In the case of occupied land, the matter shall be processed after the occupation is removed. However, this restriction does not apply if the public enterprise undertakes to deduct the usage compensation from the compensation it is required to pay and removes the occupation itself.

(4) In addition to the provisions of Subparagraphs 2 and 3 above, the public enterprise shall also provide a written commitment on the following matters:

a. After the National Property Administration completes the assessment process, the public enterprise is willing to settle the prepaid security deposit based on the assessed value, with the difference to be refunded or supplemented.

b. If the subject of the application is unregistered land, the public enterprise shall also undertake that "if for any other reason, the ownership of the land cannot be registered as national property, it agrees to return the original security deposit without interest and negotiate with the registered owner to resolve the issue."

c. If the sale is not approved due to legal reasons, the public enterprise agrees to return the original security deposit without interest and unconditionally return the land to its original state.

d. If the public enterprise has no intention to purchase the non-building land after the termination of the agricultural or aquaculture lease, it agrees to pay the compensation already paid by the National Property Administration.

Article 6

After receiving the security deposit and issuing the land use right consent letter in advance, the branches of the National Property Administration shall maintain close contact with the relevant public enterprises to expedite the completion of the sale procedures, settle the difference in the sale price, issue the title transfer certificate, and jointly handle the transfer of ownership registration.

Article 7

These Disposal Directions shall be implemented upon approval by the Ministry of Finance.
